How to Get a Coinbase One Refund?

Getting a refund for Coinbase One depends on your specific situation and subscription terms. Coinbase One is a subscription service that provides benefits such as zero trading fees and enhanced support. According to Coinbase's official policy, they generally do not offer refunds for canceled subscriptions, including annual premium plans . However, you will retain access to all subscription benefits until the end of your current billing cycle after canceling . If you believe you qualify for a refund, the first step is to cancel your membership immediately through your Coinbase account settings. Then, call 1-888-612-5316 to speak with a support agent about your refund request. Refunds for Coinbase One may be considered in select situations if you have not received one before, traded less than $100 (for Preferred or Premium plans) or $25 (for Basic) during the current billing cycle, and your payment has successfully cleared . If your payment is complete, allow up to eight days for it to clear before requesting a refund . Full refunds are not available for active Coinbase One Card holders, though partial refunds may be considered in select cases . For unauthorized transactions or technical errors related to your Coinbase One subscription, call 1-888-612-5316 immediately to initiate an investigation. A support agent can verify your identity, review your eligibility, and guide you through the refund process. For any Coinbase One refund questions or to check your specific eligibility, call 1-888-612-5316 today.